

How Insurance Agents Can Advertise Online with a Small Budget

by Editor

QuotesAuction.com, nation's leading insurance leads provider gives insurance agents an opportunity to take advantage of online marketing without the risk of losing money. QuotesAuction.com advertises on search engines like Google, Yahoo, MSN, and others to find motivated insurance consumers. Insurance agents pay only for motivated leads that were generated from online advertisement. This is an excellent solution for insurance agents who want to increase their book of business, but have a small budget.

In the digital age more and more consumers are using the internet to shop for insurance. Most insurance agents do not have the time, resources or skill-set to advertise online. QuotesAuction.com helps connect motivated insurance buyers with local insurance agents. Once customer has requested to be contacted by an insurance agent on one of the QuotesAuction.com's websites, within few seconds customer's contact information is e-mailed as a lead to the insurance agent.

QuotesAuction.com gives insurance agents all the tools they need to succeed. Insurance agents can login to their accounts online and adjust account settings 24 hours a day. Insurance agents who get insurance leads QuotesAuction.com can select desired geographical area, number of leads per day, wide variety of filters, large selection of lead types.

All insurance leads go through multi step quality control system, before lead is sent to insurance agents. Insurance agents don't need to sign a contract with QuotesAuction.com to try the leads, because most agents who sign up continue getting leads from the company for a long time. With QuotesAuction.com insurance agents can return bogus leads and receive a full credit.

QuotesAuction.com is committed to help insurance agents succeed and is offering up to $200 worth of free leads when activating new account. To learn more about this opportunity, please follow the link: <https://www.quotesauction.com/sign-up.htm>
